FOREWORD

A MESSAGE FROM OUR GLOBAL CHAIR

The King's Trust Group is a global network of support for young people, established by His Majesty King Charles III, our Royal Founding President.

Our mission is to work for young people, and together with our partners, we empower young people to build the confidence, skills and experience they need to succeed. We do this through programmes focused on Education, Employment and Enterprise.

During 2025/26, we supported 102,000 young people across 21 countries, including in Canada. Of the 26,000 who completed our Employment and Enterprise programmes, over 70% are now in a positive outcome.

The King's Trust is celebrating its 50th anniversary in 2026. Since The King's Trust was established in the UK in 1976, we have supported 1.5 million young people, including 600,000 in the last decade alone.

The King's Trust Canada is a key member of our global community and has delivered on His Majesty's vision in Canada for 15 years. I would like to send my best wishes to all those involved with The King's Trust Canada, and thank you for all you do to support young people. We look forward to The King's Trust Canada delivering on its new strategic plan to support even more young people over the next five years.

I would like to thank Mark Fell for his leadership as Chair of The King's Trust Canada over the last nine and a half years, and warmly welcome the incoming Chair, Mike Henry.

We are deeply grateful to our Global Founding Patron, His Highness Prince Rahim Aga Khan V, and to all our Global Patrons for their unwavering support.

As always, we offer our heartfelt appreciation to His Majesty The King for his enduring leadership and belief in the potential of young people. We are inspired every day by His Majesty's bold vision that every young person deserves the chance to succeed.

Alison Brittain CBE

Chair, The King's Trust Group

LEADERSHIP

LETTER FROM THE BOARD CHAIR

This year marks a significant milestone for The King's Trust Canada as we celebrate 15 years of impact in Canada, alongside 50 years of The King's Trust globally.

As we reflect on this milestone, we are reminded that our success is measured not by years, but by the thousands of young people we have supported across Canada.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I am proud to share this report and extend our sincere gratitude to everyone who has contributed to our mission over the past year. Your commitment continues to make a lasting difference in the lives of young people across Canada.

The King's Trust Group, formerly known as The Prince's Trust Group, remains a vital and growing global network that stands united in transforming the lives of young people around the world.

We also recognize the extraordinary impact left behind by the late The Honourable Hilary M. Weston, Founding Patron and Chair of our legacy organization, The Prince's Charities Canada. Through her vision, leadership and unwavering commitment, she was instrumental in establishing the deep foundation that enabled the organization to evolve into The Prince's Trust Canada and, today, The King's Trust Canada. Without her steadfast support and dedication over so many years, we would not be the organization we are today.

We are truly grateful to His Highness Prince Rahim Aga Khan V, our Global Founding Patron, whose transformational support has been so critical to our success to date. We would also like to recognize our other Global Patrons, namely Jeremy and Kathryn Green and the King Charles III Charitable Fund. In addition, we extend our sincere thanks to our keynote corporate supporters, including the BHP Foundation, RBC, Walmart Foundation and The Coca-Cola Company, whose partnership continues to create meaningful opportunities for young people.

In May 2025, I was honoured to attend His Majesty King Charles III's Speech from the Throne in Ottawa as part of a small delegation. It was a powerful reminder of His Majesty's longstanding commitment to working for young people. Witnessing this historic moment reinforced the importance of our work and the profound impact that investing in the next generation can have on the future of Canada.

This year also marked an important leadership transition for our organization with the appointment of Jeffrey L. Orridge as Chief Executive Officer in September 2025. Jeffrey brings a deep commitment to our mission, extensive leadership experience and a clear vision for the future. I am confident that under his leadership, The King's Trust Canada will continue to grow its impact and create even greater opportunities for young people across the country.

As of May 2026, I will be stepping down from my role as Board Chair, with Mike Henry as my successor, marking the end of my tenure as Board Chair of The King's Trust Canada, following nine and a half incredible years. It has been an honour and a privilege to serve throughout this time. I am proud of what we have accomplished together, and I am confident that the next generation of leadership under Mike Henry will elevate both the organization and the young people we support.

Thank you for being part of this journey.

F. Mark M. Fell

LEADERSHIP

LETTER FROM THE CEO

Since joining The King's Trust Canada in September 2025, I've felt honoured, grateful, and optimistic.

I'm honoured to be part of The King's Trust's incredible history, grateful for the opportunity to support young people, and optimistic – not only about the future of this organization, but, most importantly, about how we can positively impact the lives of young people in Canada and help to unlock the incredible talent that lies within our country

The following report will highlight the success we've been experiencing, due in large part to the invaluable leadership of Mark Fell, our outgoing Board Chair, and the foundation established by my predecessor, Senator Farah Mohamed, whose passion, ambition, and commitment to young people helped shape the organization we are today. It also reflects the outstanding stewardship of Cynthia Caron Thorburn and Kevin Uchikata as Interim Co-CEOs who impeccably guided the organization prior to my appointment.

This year marks a significant milestone in our history, as we celebrate 15 years in Canada. The King's Trust Canada (TKTC) has worked alongside community organizations, educators, employers, and supporters to help young people build the skills and confidence to learn, earn, and thrive. To date, thousands of young people across Canada have been supported through our programs.

That said, none of this would be possible without our late Chair Emerita, The Honourable Hilary M. Weston, whom we lost this past year.

A true champion for young people in Canada, Hilary M. Weston has been a cornerstone of The King's Trust Canada (TKTC) since its inception. As our founding Chair and Patron, Mrs. Weston played a pivotal role in providing the leadership needed to establish our organization in 2011. Since then, her steadfast commitment to young people through His Majesty King Charles III's work continued through her role as Chair Emerita.

Mrs. Weston's leadership has been instrumental in the evolution of our organization – from Prince's Charities Canada to The Prince's Trust Canada, and now The King's Trust Canada. Her vision, generosity, and guidance have helped build the foundation of our programs and the relationships that sustain them today. Notably throughout the past 15 years, Mrs. Weston provided vital support for youth employment initiatives – including a transformative investment in 2023.

We are deeply grateful for Hilary Weston's extraordinary legacy and her steadfast belief in the potential of young people across Canada and will always live on through her legacy.

Since joining as CEO, I've seen firsthand how young people in Canada are navigating accelerated technological change, including the rise of AI, persistent post-pandemic disruption, and increasingly complex transitions from education to employment.

That's why our mission has never been more important. We are expanding our focus beyond employment outcomes alone to help young people build the skills, confidence, networks, and opportunities they need to achieve long-term economic participation and thrive in a rapidly changing world.

Together with our donors, partners, supporters, board, and dedicated team, we aim to support 100,000 young people over the next five years and help shape a Canada where every young person is better equipped to build their own future through access to meaningful employment.

ABOUT THE KING'S TRUST CANADA

Founded in 2011, by His Majesty King Charles III, The King's Trust Canada (formerly the Prince's Trust Canada) is a national charity that supports young people (aged 15 – 24) from primarily underserved communities to access, engage, and succeed in meaningful economic opportunities.

We work with educational and sport-related environments, community organizations, employers, funders, and government to create coordinated pathways for young people. Together, we support young people (aged 15–24) from primarily underserved communities to access, engage in, and succeed in meaningful economic opportunities.

By focusing on economic participation and recognizing that skills are currency, networks are capital, and experience is equity, we are helping to expand equitable access to opportunity and strengthen Canada's future workforce at scale.

SKILLS ARE CURRENCY. NETWORKS ARE CAPITAL. EXPERIENCE IS EQUITY.

Our approach recognizes that young people need more than a job posting. They need the skills employers value, the networks that open doors, and the experience that proves what they can do.

OUR PURPOSE, MISSION, VISION, STRATEGIC GOAL

Purpose

We exist to create positive generational change by investing in young people.

Vision

A Canada where every young person is better equipped to build their own future through access to meaningful employment.

Mission

Support young people (aged 15 – 24) from primarily underserved communities to access, engage, and succeed in meaningful economic opportunities.

Strategic Goal

To support 100,000 young people over the next five years with future-ready skills, networks, and opportunities to learn, earn, and thrive.

OUR VALUES

At The King's Trust Canada, our values guide everything we do:

Teamwork

We believe that the success of young people is a collective responsibility that requires prioritizing collaboration and co-creation to achieve our mission.

Respect

We treat everyone with dignity and fairness. We value diversity of perspectives and experiences and work to ensure opportunities are accessible to all we serve.

Understanding

We approach our work with empathy, curiosity, with a willingness to listen.

Support

We stand by young people as they build their futures through the development of skills, building of networks, and facilitating access to work experiences.

Transparency

We lead with openness, accountability, and integrity. Our decisions, actions, and impacts are communicated clearly to whomever we work with.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Our Board of Directors is comprised of experienced leaders who are deeply committed to uplifting the lives of futures of young people across Canada.

Leadership Transition

Mark M. Fell will conclude nine and a half years as Board Chair on April 30, 2026. Mike Henry will succeed him, taking office as Board Chair of The King's Trust Canada effective May 1, 2026. Jeffrey L. Orridge was appointed Chief Executive Officer in September 2025.

A FITTING TRIBUTE TO THE LATE THE HON. HILARY M. WESTON, C.M., C.V.O., O.Ont

This year, we were honoured to present the inaugural Hilary M. Weston Young Leader Award to Amber Culley, a passionate social justice advocate and a member of The King's Trust Canada's Youth Council.

The Hilary M. Weston Young Leader Award is presented to a young person in recognition of their remarkable commitment to community service, creativity, leadership, and social responsibility. Their passion, initiative, and dedication to creating positive change exemplify the values championed by the late Honourable Hilary M. Weston—The King's Trust Canada's Chair Emerita—and highlights the powerful impact young leaders can make in their communities.

From Kitchener, Ontario, Amber Culley completed an Honours Bachelor of Arts in Criminology and Political Science with Minors in Global Studies and Religion & Culture at Wilfrid Laurier University. Currently, she is completing a double-master's degree in Psychotherapy and Spiritual Care and Theology at Martin Luther University College.

Amber is passionate about mental health and trauma awareness, gender equity, youth empowerment, civic engagement, environmentalism, reconciliation, and access to education. From her involvement with peace and justice work across countries to her mental health advocacy with a wide variety of organizations, Amber's leadership and advocacy makes her an exemplary inaugural recipient of the Weston Award.

In April 2026, Amy Buskirk, Executive Director of The Hilary and Galen Weston Foundation, and Jeffrey Orridge, CEO of The King's Trust Canada, presented the award to Amber at Humber Polytechnic.

KICKING OFF AS WE PLAY FORWARD

With traditional entry-level jobs in decline, young people are missing key opportunities to build workplace skills. In Canada, 68% of young people participate in sports, which opens a key opportunity to use participation and play to foster life and employability skills.

Through the Sport for Development approach, The King's Trust Canada is using play-based learning and insights to help young people develop essential skills for life and work.

Just ahead of the FIFA World Cup™ happening in North America, TKTC and The Coca-Cola Company teamed up to launch the Coca-Cola Future Careers (FC) Academy, a dynamic digital learning experience designed to equip young people with the skills and confidence to step into sports marketing and related industries. Through TKTC's mobilization of FC Academy, the platform has seen over 5,000 platform registrations to date (and counting).

Participants also had the opportunity to bring those lessons to life through a sports-themed edition of The Network, where they explored how skills such as communication, teamwork, problem-solving, and leadership are developed through sport. Through interactive activities and networking opportunities, young people connected with peers and industry professionals while gaining valuable insights into the role sport can play in their career journeys.

Looking Ahead

In 2026-2027 will see nearly 400 young people ages 15-20 in Vancouver and Toronto through the inaugural TKTC Play Forward Summits – dynamic events featuring some of FC Academy's module learnings in person. Through interactive games and meaningful interactions, these summits will expand on The Network's Kick-off events and will show young people how the sports they love can build the skills, confidence and adaptability young people need to succeed in work and life.

In 2026-2027, young people (aged 13+) through The King's Trust Canada will be provided with once-in-a-lifetime opportunities as flagbearers and/or coin toss assistants for select 2026 FIFA World Cup™ matches in Toronto and Vancouver.

IMPACT OF OUR PROGRAMS

SKILLS ACADEMY

“I enjoyed being part of the Skills Academy program. I learned so many new and practical tips about networking, things I had never thought about before, like how to approach people confidently, build meaningful connections, and maintain professional relationships over time. The sessions helped me understand how to present myself better during conversations and interviews, and I feel more prepared to explore new employment opportunities. I appreciated how supportive and interactive the facilitators were, and I hope future programming continues to focus on real-life skills that help youth like me succeed in Canada. Thank you for creating such a valuable experience!”

SKILLS ACADEMY

MATTHEW ANOOP

Microcredential and The Network participant

Mathew Anoop has been a long-time participant with The King's Trust Canada, participating in flagship TKTC programs including Skills Academy and The Network. He is also celebrated as the first participant outside of the 360 Program to complete all five Skills Academy microcredentials with a passing grade.

A regular at TKTC networking events, Mathew has built a solid network with other attendees. In December 2025, at a TKTC networking event, Mathew announced that after 12 months of unemployment and attending as many TKTC programs as he could to upskill, gain insights and information, build a network, and boost his confidence, he had landed a role as a Software Analyst. He expressed extreme gratitude to the TKTC team for its support and encouragement over the year. He is a true testament to the impact that can come from TKTC programs.

Our Success Stories

THE NETWORK

AKHILA ASHOK

The Network Participant and Volunteer from TKTC Tech Event 2025 with KPMG

Akhila Ashok's journey with The King's Trust Canada began in August 2024 when she attended the KPMG Careers in Cybersecurity panel discussion. With a background in mechanical engineering and five years of experience in the aerospace industry across India and the UK, Akhila moved to Canada to pursue an MBA at Queen's University's Smith School of Business, but soon faced the challenges of a difficult job market.

Eager to pivot into consulting and cybersecurity, Akhila discovered TKTC's panel online. Its focus on women in cybersecurity immediately caught her attention, and she found it refreshing and inspiring to hear from women leaders in the industry. The panel, featuring her now co-workers at KPMG, proved to be transformative. Akhila actively engaged during the session and reached out afterward to Serena, who connected her to KPMG's cybersecurity strategy and governance team, leading to her first interview and a position soon after.

One year later, Akhila returned to TKTC as a volunteer at a networking event hosted at KPMG's Toronto office, giving back to the community that helped launch her new career. Today, she is thriving in cybersecurity consulting at KPMG and hopes to one day become a partner.

"I feel like I have this career because of the program you guys had, so I'm always going to be grateful for that,"

Our Success Stories

YOUTH COUNCIL

MAXWELL EVANS

King's Trust Canada Youth Council member

Before joining The King's Trust Canada, Maxwell had recently completed his Bachelor of Commerce degree and was navigating the highly competitive transition into full-time employment. As a first-generation university student, he faced financial pressures, limited professional networks, and systemic barriers that often limit opportunities for African Nova Scotian youth.

Through The King's Trust Canada, Maxwell strengthened essential skills in leadership, communication, strategic planning, and confidence-building. His participation in national and international youth leadership opportunities, including engagements connected to His Majesty King Charles III and the first Youth Council in King's Trust programming, expanded his perspective and empowered him to advocate for underrepresented communities.

Maxwell's growth has had a significant impact on both his personal development and the community around him. He has stepped into leadership roles supporting African Nova Scotian students, contributed to improving representation within his faculty, and built a foundation for long-term career success.

"The most enjoyable part of my time with The Kings Trust Canada's Youth Council so far is split between two moments. Meeting the entire Youth Council team for the first time was such a great experience. Having the opportunity to team build and ideate for the weekend was eye-opening and critical for my development as a strategic thinker and leader."

"The second moment is being given the honour of meeting His Majesty King Charles III, and being able to represent The King's Trust Youth Council on a national stage through our CBC interview. This was a great opportunity for me to face a slight fear of public speaking, and it has been the catalyst for me to improve my communication skills within my everyday life, since who knows when you'll be thrust into the spotlight."

COMMUNITY PARTNER HIGHLIGHTS

Accelerate Auto

Accelerate Auto is a not-for-profit coalition of Black professionals and allies spanning automotive sectors, including manufacturers, dealerships, industry associations, and suppliers. Its mission is to advance career opportunities for Black talent in car dealerships, manufacturers, the aftermarket, and suppliers while tackling the systemic racism that is hampering progress.

In June 2025, TKTC took part in Accelerate Auto's 5th annual Drive Forward event at Birchmount Park Collegiate Institute in Scarborough, a dynamic, in-person event designed to introduce Black youth to career opportunities within the automotive industry.

The event allowed TKTC to connect with 60 high school students through a carnival-style activation where, through fun and laughter, they learned about The King's Trust Canada and how to get involved. It also provided a welcome test for activations with this new age group and helped secure TKTC's invitation back in future years.

Onyx Initiative

Onyx Initiative aspires to be a catalyst for the professional growth and development of Black Canadians as they launch their careers after university or college, helping them through access to placements, mentorship, coaching, and professional development.

For the 2025/26 fiscal year, TKTC delivered 12 Skills Academy sessions to Onyx scholars, including sessions on Self Awareness, Transferable Skills, and Support and Network. In total, 171 attendees were engaged through this series, including 125 within TKTC's 18–30 age range.

On August 9, 2025, TKTC also had the opportunity to network with Onyx scholars and partners at Onyx's offsite Breaking Bread Retreat with Chef Roger Mooking at Rocklands Market in Northern Ontario. It was a special opportunity to meet several scholars in person after delivering programming virtually over the last year.

Education Bank

Education Bank, powered by Parents Engaged in Education, is a charitable organization providing free resources and skill-building opportunities for families, youth, and communities in Ontario. Its mission is to help young people build confidence, develop practical skills, and step into their future with greater opportunity, helping reduce the cycle of generational poverty.

In 2025, TKTC delivered programming to a cohort of 12 young people enrolled in Education Bank's robotics programs. Sessions included TKTC's newly developed Exploration curriculum for high school-aged youth, with 10 sessions delivered, including a final review and reflection session.

City of Toronto

City of Toronto and TKTC continued to strengthen their partnership over the last year through opportunities across the city, beginning with TKTC's attendance at three career fairs in Jane and Finch, North York, and Rexdale.

In 2025, TKTC also hosted a joint networking event at the Ethenonnhawahstihnen' Community Recreation Centre in North York. Focused on top employability skills, the event allowed participants to move through activity stations, build peer-to-peer connections in a fun, low-stakes environment, and demonstrate and build their skills.

A highlight of the partnership was the co-delivery of the Youth Career Activation event on March 27, 2026, at St. Lawrence Market. The event brought together 197 young people from across the city to hear from career professionals and get excited for the upcoming FIFA World Cup. It also built on a January 2026 Youth Roundtable where young people shared what the event should deliver and look like.

First Work

First Work is a leading membership organization bringing together employment service providers, business leadership, academia, and government committed to advancing healthy employment ecosystems. Its membership community, which TKTC is part of, shapes its work and positions it as a bridge between jobseekers and employment opportunities.

For the 2025/26 fiscal year, TKTC tested Career Quest: An Escape Room Experience, a new activation created by TKTC, at First Work conferences. In October 2025, TKTC delivered the activation at Futures, First Work's annual workforce development conference, to 45 workforce development professionals from across Ontario. The delivery was an incredible success and was noted as a highlight of the conference by many attendees.

TKTC was then invited back to deliver Career Quest at First Work's Aspire conference in February 2026. Of the 800 high school students at the conference, 153 attended TKTC's activation, again noting it as a highlight and giving TKTC an excellent opportunity to test a new version for a youth audience. TKTC will continue working with First Work, including delivering at its Amplify conference for sector leadership in April 2026.

DONOR AND PARTNER HIGHLIGHTS

BHP Foundation: Backing Bold Ideas in Skill Development

With support from the BHP Foundation, The King's Trust Canada is reimagining how young people build the skills they need to succeed. Through the Skills Academy Framework Exploration Pilot, The King's Trust Canada worked in partnership with other youth serving organizations to co-create the activities designed to engage young people effectively alongside four community and school partners.

For many young people, the employment space can feel intimidating and overwhelming. To solve for this, The King's Trust Canada is taking a hands-on approach, asking them directly to contribute ideas and help design activities that meet them where they are and encourage skill development. Young people shared what they actually want from employability programs: ways to recognize and validate the skills they already have, guides and mentors who reflect their own experiences, sport and play as entry points, and safe, relationship-driven spaces for self-discovery.

Alongside the BHP Foundation's dedication to innovation, collaboration and systemic change, The King's Trust Canada is proving that when young people help design the path forward, they get further along it.

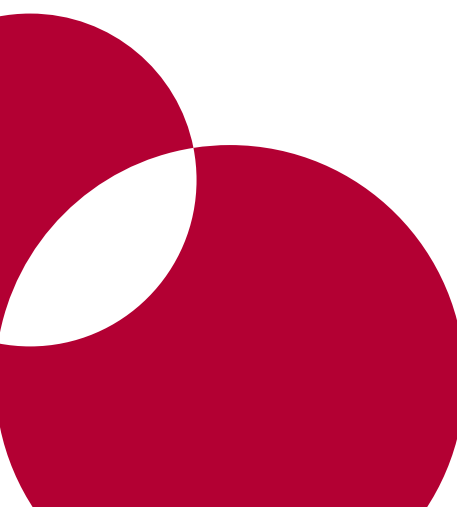

Walmart Foundation: Addressing Both Sides of the Equation

Closing the gap between potential and opportunity means supporting young people while also engaging the employers who can open doors to employment. With support from the Walmart Foundation, The King's Trust Canada is advancing work on both sides of that equation.

The King's Trust Canada is expanding its reach to serve more young people across Canada and deepening relationships with Black- and Indigenous-serving organizations to better meet the unique needs of young people in their communities. To date, more than 1,800 young people have gained access to skills, networks and experiences to help prepare them for future opportunities through work supported by the Walmart Foundation.

At the same time, The King's Trust Canada is engaging employers to help turn those skills into opportunities. Its Employer Community of Practice has grown to 15 organizations, bringing together some of Canada's top employers to share best practices, identify and validate foundational skills, address roadblocks and biases in hiring, and create more opportunities for young people to succeed.

Together, these efforts are helping bridge the distance between young people preparing for the future and employers looking for talent—creating stronger pathways to opportunity across Canada.

EMPLOYER COMMUNITY OF PRACTICE

Launched in November 2025 with support from the Walmart Foundation, the Employer Community of Practice (ECoP) is a national, cross-sector network of employers advancing inclusive, skills-first hiring practices to improve employment outcomes for young people.

The ECoP brings together organizations committed to broadening talent pipelines, reducing bias in hiring, and supporting young people to access meaningful economic opportunities.

Through quarterly convenings, member organizations share tools, co-develop skills-first hiring frameworks, discuss the importance of lived experiences and non-traditional pathways, and generate thought leadership on identifying and validating potential in young talent.
